ASTROLOGY EXPLAINED

-o-o-o-o-o-o-o-o-o-o-

Quadriplicities: The twelve signs of the Zodiac are divided not only into triplicities - see FJ no 10 - but also once again into four groups of three. These make up the four symbolic elements Fire, Earth, Air and Water. The signs are divided thus: Fire: Aries, Leo and Sagittarius. Earth: Taurus, Virgo and Capricorn. Air: Gemini, Libra, and Aquarius. Water: Cancer, Scorpio and Pisces.

Thus we can see that by correlating the two groups of 'Triplicities and Quadriplicities' we have an elemental and descriptive nature of the affinities of the signs.

Taken from the Sunday Express: Corp. Armando Valdes was on guard in the northern desert area of Chile when he was aroused by his men to view two bright lights descending from the sky. He advanced ahead of his men to where the lights were hovering just above the ground. As he approached he suddenly disappeared! Only to reappear 15 minutes later with several days growth of beard and his wrist watch advanced on the dial by five days. When he recovered he said, "You will never know who we are or where we came from but we will return again."Time travel?

There are many subjects which man puzzles over in his attempt to gain knowledge, but the one which poses the most fascinating problems relates to 'where do we come from, and what useful purpose can we serve in our few years upon this earth?'

These questions have teased mans imagination since he was first lifted above his near relatives, the apes. There is no way in which an absolute answer can be given either, for, or against, our connection with these simian relations, though if a little of our present day knowledge is applied we can reach some pretty startling answers!

However hard man tries, and he does with ever more intenseness he cannot get a reasonable degree of intelligent response from these 'ancesters' of ours. Tests which wouldnt baffle a six month old baby still fail to be solved by these experimental chimps. There is a vital spark missing, the speck of independent thought which sets man apart from every other animal species which resides upon this planet.

Now, I can already hear the indignant replies that, 'we have had time to develope.' Rubbish! Apes have been around for a far sight longer than we have, and up to the present time, their evolution is far more advanced along their line than our. Perhaps we are indeed related to them, but something happened to man many thousands of years ago which brought him to the level of developement which we have reached today!

What of the theory that we were selected and fostered for a time by extra-terrestrial beings? It's not such a cuckoo idea as it sounds. Why shouldnt an intelligence have visited our planet all those years ago? The fact that we have only recently taken the leap into the skies with our feeble first attempt at space flight are nothing to go by, after all, our so called science is still in its cradle!

In some of the old scriptures there are descriptions of various attempts to colonise and interbreed with early man. How old are these writings? Perhaps more important, how far back do they refer to, and who was it that interbred with man? According to the old writings these beings were refered to as gods. This term to describe them is to be expected and too much emphasis on the word 'god' should be avoided. 'Other being' would be more apt a word for them, for though they resemble us in many ways, there were some in which they differed considerably.

Their size was the main factor which shows in the writings, they towered above man, ('in the days when there were giants upon the face of the earth. 9) and, some of them at least, 17 - possessed six fingers! Some of the so called experts state blandly that, if they existed at all they were no more than mutants! Firstly let us take the query as to whether they existed or not? When the old books were written the few people capable of recording things were not in the habit of putting down information which wasn't there, in other words, they didn't invent stories just for the sake of things! Their purpose was to chronicle and record the history and legends of their race, not to invent fiction, that is a modern day characteristic! Secondly, about the mutants! It should be realised that if anyone is mutant it is us! Looking back over the scriptures we will record in our mind what was said about interbreeding with man, trying to breed good points into him, and to rid us of our bad ones, in those days we had plenty too. [sic - whats changed? editor] We are the result of artificial breeding, the better amongst us having been selected to carry on our race, while the less successful were destroyed (A point we should bear in mind today perhaps!) [Or destroyed themselves - editor].

What happened to these giants of the olden times? According to what was written at the time, they simply vanished from the face of the earth, in much the same way as the Sumerian race suddenly seemed to appear upon the face of the earth with their very advanced cultures! Are there perhaps some connections between these ancient giants and the modern day UFO sightings which take place? No one knows where these 'saucers' come from? Some say from outer space, while others think they may come from this planet, from the 'hole' which has been alledged to have been photographed at the North Pole etc. Wherever they appear from though, serious study of them is needed. At present only cursory attention is applied to solving this, when what is really needed is full scale co-operation between scientist and layman alike. We get simply nowhere by just reporting sightings, in fact the outcome of our report is fairly obvious to the regular ufologist, a negative response will be given!

Amongst the old texts lies enough material to furnish us with more proof than we need that there were superior beings on this earth many thousands of years ago. It now rests with us whether or not we're willing to believe what we can read. The head buried in the sand attitude has gone on long enough, a view which is encouraged by governments and churches alike, so enabling them to better their own ends! People say, 'But what can we do about it?' We must use every means we can at our disposal to bring to the attention of the public at large the unexplained mysteries of the past and present. We put MPs in Parliament so why not start with them, what they think of us is irrelevant as it's their job to see to our demands! [What an effect it could have if ALL our members and readers wrote to their MPs demanding to know what the British governments policy is towards visitors from outer space, and who has been designated to deal with matters in this connection - the RAF don't want to know they say, "It's out of our orbit." Come on lobby them! - editor]. Anyway, some of the subjects which are discussed in the Commons are a lot more far fetched than the UFO topic! Stand up and be counted should be the call, and don't be afraid of what others will think of you if they find out you're interested in UFO's! That's a failing of our modern day society, and one that should be dropped immediately for a more sensible one. We can learn a lot from the old writings, perhaps enough to enable us to set ourselves on the road to a better society instead of the one that we tread at present, which is leading us nowhere save to a hasty self destruction!

Jean-Pierre Girard - The French Uri Geller - Part I

The "French Uri Geller", Jean-Pierre Girard, is 34, tall, with dark hair, a good-looking charmer. But unlike Uri, he does not want to be a variety act, a professional spoon-bender. "I want to know how I can do these paranormal things. I am sure once this has been found out, everyone will be able to perform these 'miracles'", he says. Recently, on a French TV programme devoted to paranormal phenomena, he twisted a bar of metal just by fleetingly touching its surface. He non-plussed Dr. Philibert, Professor at the Paris-Sud University who closely watched him, and Ranky, a famous French illusionist, another witness, was convinced that Girard did not cheat. He said afterwards: "I know all possible tricks - in fact I know nine different methods how to 'bend' a metal bar, but you could not twist a bar as large and solid as the one used in the programme." But now Girard has gone a step further: He submitted to a laboratory test under strict supervision at the Institute of Psychology at the Mons University in Belgium. The experiments were supervised by Professor Dierkens of the University. Girard was placed in a so-called "Faraday Cage" and immobilised in an armchair. He was isolated from the outside and cut off from all interference.

A metal bar, supplied by the Brussels University laboratory of metallurgy, was then handed to him. The bar had a special gauge attached which registered the slightest mechanical pressure given to it. Two cameras filmed the experiment throughout, one fixed on Girard and the other on his hands in close-up.

After a few seconds and extraordinary thing happened: The metal bar became warped. Professor Dierkens used an electroencephalograph (EEG) and a cardiograph to measure Girard's brain and heart "patterns". He said afterwards: "Something remarkable happened. The EEG apparatus records the tiny electric currents generated in the brain. There was an abrupt change in the rhythm at the moment the metal bar became deformed. At first the pattern was that of the Beta-Rhythm - the pattern of a person who is tense and excited. But in the moment the astonishing phenomenon took place, the pattern changed to the Alpha-Rhythm ... that of a person totally relaxed. Yet at the same time his heart beat accelerated dramatically. It seems that by relaxing totally, Girard was able to release additional potentialities of his brain cells."

Part 2 of this article will appear in FJ no 12.

It is to be noted that the USA, the USSR and mainland Europe are putting a tremendous amount of effort into ESP and borderland research. Come on wake up England! Lets not be last again!

M 86 Notebook

"As you can see," continued Spicel, "The situation is now poised for the next stage of operations." "As this will become self evident no further direct dialogue to the P216 unit is necessary for distribution to the populace." "This will now be handled via M 89, and this cooperative programme will continue to demonstrate our life style and philosophy."

MORE UFO ESP CONTACT ESTABLISHED!
-o-o-o-o-o-o-o-o-o-o-o-o-o-o-o-o-

Another prolonged communication via ESP, both visual and 'audio' has been notified to us at the Centre. This takes the form of a prolonged run of communication sessions and started independantly of our efforts here. I detail below part of an introductory letter from the experimenters, and further news is hoped to follow: Our writer we have called Kei.

"...The atmosphere was beautiful, it was one of deep calm and intense peace. Each of the persons there, knew what they were doing and quietly got on with their work. It was a 'clean' atmosphere, there was no sense of competition or incompetence, they were all working together for the good of the whole community...

"It is because of their desire to establish communications with more people on this planet that I am writing to you now.

"It would seem that these are the 'secret chiefs' of various occult (esoteric) orders and that their communications with us are much more than we would realise.

"Now our main contact is with a vessel orbiting the Earth. This would appear to be a laboratory ship, which we have numbered M 89. Here there are experts in many fields, some of whom I have been privileged to meet and work with, always in this atmosphere of intense calm and gratitude, and great happiness to meet and work together.

"One of the greatest problems I find is that of closing my mind to the noise of it's own thoughts and the concentration of energy in one direction. Since we started we have been given aids to our concentration which gives us almost instantaneous contact with these people. I cannot express the joy and gratitude I owe these persons. My only hope is that through this letter more people will try to contact them."
