

over are very bright, as bright as Venus or the Echo type satellite. They also quite often transit in a level path rather than a curve. This direction has no relation to the direction of the wind and they often switch on or off before they reach any occulting obstructions such as clouds or hills or ground haze. Some nights one can go out and see, given a clear sky, a few satellites pass over. Other nights the numbers seem quite out of proportion. I have had watchers come back after a three hour watch and declare they have seen no UFO's but recorded 38 satellites, all of them nearly overhead?

Some people watching come armed with 'UFO detectors', a primitive device using a compass needle to detect magnetic variation. On the 10th July 1976 a report from Robert Norman and Kevin Goodman gave some indication that they may work. At 11.29pm two detectors that were sited at Cradle Hill, away from cars and watchers and protected from the wind, went off together for no apparent reason. Some 15 seconds later a ufo was seen going over. It pulsed and then went out, flashed once brightly as if in farewell and was not seen again.

Since the commencement of Fountain Journal I have been receiving letters daily from people who have seen UFO's, pilots, engineers, vicars among them. Three or more a week come in from the Warminster area, and that's after I've written off space junk, meteors and such like. I don't ask you to believe it, go out and look for them, then you can judge for yourself!

WHY WARMINSTER?

-o-o-o-o-o-o-o-

Is this the centre of some powerful magnetic energy, necessary for re-charging an advanced form of propulsion? The Wessex area of Britain has the largest concentration of burial grounds going back nearly four thousand years. I believe the shape of the Bronze Age graves, being perfectly circular, was intended as being representational of the Sun, or UFO's, or perhaps both.

I believe that the celebrated White Horses of the Wessex Downs were carved on the hill-sides for the purpose of guiding-in UFO pilots. They were intentional landmarks. All these are hypotheses, true; yet did not certain tribes of Papua and New Guinea worship the 'silver bird'-our modern aeroplane-and set up stylised models of them?

That inveterate compiler of freakish oddities that seem wholly disconnected from natural phenomena, Charles Fort, said of the worldwide incursions of UFOs: "I think we are property. I say we belong to something. That once upon a time this Earth was a no-mans land: that other worlds explored and colonised here and fought among themselves for possession. But now it is owned by something - and that something owns this Earth and all others have been warned off."

He is not the sole shrewd chronicler and investigator of unknown incoming intelligences to conclude that the aliens are so at variance with anything we know that to try and describe them in language everyone understands is an impossible task .... In essence, our owners, creators (and genetic controllers?) in the cosmos are not merely from another world but another type of universe, their laws of chemistry and physics foreign to ours. They can break time and space barriers, travel anywhere in the galaxy by hyper-dimensional links not yet in the scope of our own scientific horizons, and normally remain invisible to our circumscribed vision which fails to see beyond the spectra of the ultra-violet and infra-red.

Some psyche-dominated and spiritual thinkers believe they are pure thought energy forms and can be anywhere at any time they please. The weird corollary is that they can actually appear in physical form when they wish - and in this atomic and molecular cell-changing manner have been responsible for nearly all legends of heavenly angels and great white gods from the sky which have originated from various countries and been scorned in these so-called more enlightened times. Looking at certain UFO testimony and flight patterns in retrospect, some deep thinkers say Ufonauts are totally uninhibited by physical limitations such as bodies.....

It is reassuring to us at Warminster to have many corroborative and confirming sightings from other sectors of our globe, that largely exonerate us from cruel jibes and cynicism we constantly encounter from the know-alls and experts. Testimony from people like Bryce Bond, a journalist, radio announcer and teacher of para-psychology in New York, for instance. He came to Warminster in August of 1972 and has written and broadcast the following experience in his words:

"August 26th 1972. Warminster at this time of night, eve for a Saturday, was somewhat deserted. Only a few people ambled along the narrow streets. I felt that I had eyes on me all the way. It was a most unusual feeling.

The small narrow streets, with high brick walls, sky overcast, town strangely quiet - maybe a prelude to what I was about to experience on that eventful night! After walking a short distance through narrow archways and flowerlined paths, I was amazed how lovely it smelled and how clear it was... On the hill, some of the skywatching group had their telescopes set up on tripods, others had binoculars and cameras ready. The thing that really struck me was how friendly everyone was. A good portion are very curious, another percentage are thrill-seekers, and the remainder? Well, they just enjoyed being there with this warm, loving group of spiritual individuals, sharing stories and conversation.

UFO's have been here for eons of years. History is filled with reports of strange glowing craft, of landings and contactees. But due to negative programming of these ancients, and fear of the unknown being magnified out of all proportion from mouth to mouth, it spread right into modern times. Only in these times we blame television and motion pictures for doing the damage: creating near mass-panic in the mind, showing these UFO's as hostile, coming down from the heavens to devour, murder and rape - and to gobble us up!

This travesty, of beings who are thousands or even millions of years ahead of us in technology, intelligence and spiritual intent! What the masses do not understand, they fear.

When they fear, they shoot and run. There are numerous reports that UFO's were shot at, out of panic ... even by the military. Put yourself in 'their' shoes and think: what would you do if you went to their planet, or dimension, or universe, or another period in time?

We drove over to Starr Hill, another ancient burial mound area. This sector is where the Romans built upon, with a few of the remnants still in evidence. The location was down in a valley, wheat fields all around and high hills and ridges. The sky started to clear, filled with thousands of beautiful stars and still no UFO's. It was getting awfully late and still I had not interviewed Arthur Shuttlewood. My voice was getting weaker, my head clogged up due to the cool dampness. I got his attention and we crawled into one of the nearby cars to keep warm while I interviewed him for American radio listeners.

He was telling me that, only a few nights ago, three large entities about eight feet in height were seen down in a little hollow, to which he pointed. While in their presence, people felt a great warmth exuded from them, they were engulfed by it and the scent of roses and violets was very strong ... All of a sudden, while Arthur was speaking, his conversation went to a peculiar light that just appeared in the field in front of us. He was somewhat blasé about the whole thing. Arthur then said quietly: "I'm very glad you are here tonight, Bryce. There in front of us is a UFO. Notice the triangle shape and the coloured lights going around? That is a very good sign."

It then started to lift in a weird pattern - then just disappeared! I was flabbergasted, for it was so close .... While describing that one on tape for American listeners, another one popped up about 25 degrees along the horizon. This one was very brilliant white, while the other was a blaze of coloured lights. The intensity increased as it raised itself very slowly, did a little dance in the sky, then took off and disappeared. But, before it did, Arthur jumped from the car, borrowed a flashlight and sent Morse code to it. It in turn sent back the same signal that Arthur flashed out. Then it flew off. This was the highlight of my British trip: a close sighting: yet I honestly felt spiritually close to the lights in the field."

Bryce began interviewing other watchers as to what they had witnessed. "I turned off the recorder and made a mad dash into the field, went into a light trance state and asked higher intelligence to please make contact again. Leaving the group, I made my way down to the hollow, where two nights before, three entities were seen. Again I went into a light trance state for what seemed to be a few minutes only .....

I was wakened by my friends, who thought I had gone. I must have been there for about an hour. I truly do not know what transpired while I was there or in trance. I told my friends I would return shortly and they went back to where the others were standing near the farm barn. I then made my way slowly back to the parked cars and people. Now here is a strange thing: The wheat in the field next to me as I walked back up the dirt road was about waist high .....

I walked along the road very close to the fence. Suddenly I heard a noise - like something crushing the wheat down. There was no breeze blowing that night. I looked over. The moon had just come out, shining very brightly; and there, before my eyes, a large depression was being formed in the growing corn. The wheat was being crushed down in a counter-clockwise position. It too was shaped like a triangle and measured about 20 feet from point to point.

I stood there a few moments and experienced a tremendous tingling sensation: the same sweet smell: being engulfed by warm air ... Not fully understanding what had happened, I walked up the road to get Arthur, my host. Speaking of the field, Arthur pointed out some landing impressions in the section fronting the barn. A circle 30 feet in circumference, with another depression spotted, but this one a long cigar shape. All the depressions, "recently made and noticed, were in a counter clockwise fashion."

"After all this, I was very happy and thankful. My mission had been a success," confided Bryce, who is research editor of 'Beyond Reality', a leading US psychic and metaphysical magazine, and also well known interviewer in the States.

Kon-Tiki Sighting

-o-o-o-o-o-o-o-o-o-o-

Not many Britons know that Thor Heyerdahl, of Kon-Tiki fame, who crossed the Atlantic from east to west in a replica of an ancient Egyptian papyrus boat called Ra II, was among hundreds who witnessed a UFO reported from a number of Caribbean localities on Monday, July 29th 1970. The story was given no prominence in the English press, yet it was the subject of a lengthy item in the Norwegian 'Morgenposten' of August 1st. It was an occurrence of some importance, obviously, so merited headlines given. The story ran as follows: "San Juan (MTB-UPI):- Thor Heyerdahl and his crew on board RA 2, the crew aboard the United Nations oceanographical ship Calmara, and thousands of citizens at St. Thomas, St. Croix and other Caribbean Islands, reported on Monday night at 02.45 that they had observed an unidentified flying object.

The first report came from a navigator on board RA 2, Norman Baker, who said that he had charge of the steering of the vessa; when he caught sight of the 'thing' which was round, flat and clearly lighted. He cried out to Heyerdahl and the Mexican anthropologist, Dr. Santiago Genoves, who was with them. All three looked at the Thing for ten minutes. Also Calmara, which was on course towards RA 2, reported that they had seen the object. Newspapers and radio stations on several Caribbean Islands reported that they received hundreds of telephone calls from people who had observed the Thing, also many fishermen out on the sea."

THE GREATEST COMMAND

-o-o-o-o-o-o-o-o-o-o-

"And this command I give You - that you love one another." Thus spoke the Christ unto his followers. And thus came into the world the greatest command that has ever been given -- the law of harmony.

For over two thousand years the followers of the Christ have professed to be living according to that command. Oh, blind and foolish ones! Is this world of conflict, friction, disease and pain the outcome of this highest principle of the Universe? Is not love the power that unites all things into oneness? Is it not the element which produces and is itself, all harmony, peace and understanding? Then we are not actually living according to the law of love. That greatest of all commandments is not even slightly understood and therefore is even less applied.

Love knows neither right nor wrong; it does not see one thing as better than another; it does not ask rewards for what it gives but only serves because that is the nature of its being. If you have the courage to analyze yourself, can anyone claim such attributes of character? There is no man on the Earth today who is not to some degree desiring personal gratification, be it the desire for fame, the approval of other men, or even the feeling within himself that he is a virtuous man. There is not one who has not many likes and dislikes, and there are none who are not working for the reward of action. The world today is living according to the law of selfishness and it is that which creates the cloud of confusion hiding the great reality. We have imprisoned the cosmic self and sought to exalt the little ego, the personality. The mortal is constantly working for itself, selfishly clinging to possessions which do not even belong to it, but are only a loan from the Universe; using for self-gratification, that substance over which he is no more than a steward. Men are full of selfish desires and fears, but he who can lose his personal self in the Universal Being has that certainty which is the channel of peace. That which supports man is Universal Love, but self-destruction is the reward of fear and hate and greed. Selfishness acts like a cancer, eating the substance of the body and causing much pain and suffering. It is always the personal action that hurts.

.....So wrote the late George Adamski in his latter years, much of merit in his words, but a bleak world indeed, perhaps we can prove some of his opinions as too harsh, or are they his opinions?

Starting in this edition a series of UFO PROFILES projected from a widely based range of photos and data - in this issue those which originally were associated with Adamski with other new details and corrections added.

JUNE 27th 1976 LANDING NEST (see left
 )O-O-O-O-O-O-O-O-O-O-O-O-O-O-O-O(O

Roy Fisher writes: Dear Arthur,

I am writing of 26th-27th June 1976 sighting at Warminster, I will not list the sightings we all saw from 11.16pm to 1.10am at Starr Hill that night as you know as well as I what we all saw, I hope you remember me I was talking to you most of the night with my friend Steve Evans. Well just after you departed Steve and myself went back to Cradle Hill where I joined a few other people sky watching. Our first sighting was at 1.10am which was a brilliant white light which shot straight down from the sky over the copse area.

We were all talking about the light we had just seen when someone flashed their torch over the field towards the golf club house. Then a great crackling sound came straight at us! We all jumped back! The sound came to where I was standing and then swung round to the rear of the party, the sheep in the next field went mad. There was no visible thing to be seen.

In the morning I saw the grass was flattened in a funny way. I have enclosed a picture of this taken with my Polaroid Land camera Swinger II, (above).

Witnesses present were, Steve Evans, myself, T & B Chivers P Pegler, Peter and Paul Humpherys, all from Melksham. At 1.30am a very bright light crossed the sky over Cradle. At 1.40am a loud clicking sound to the right of the copse. 1.50am, white light zig-zagged from south to north above Cradle. 2.20am white light zig-zagged and circled south of Cradle, disappeared at 2.22am. 2.55am white light zig-zagged south to west. 3.20am white light crossed west to east, all present saw these unusual lights. When the other people departed early in the morning, Steve and I went to Heavens Gate, it was very bright, no other people were about, when I heard heavy footsteps in the bushes which are very thick for people or animals to walk through. The footsteps were very heavy and loud - they were coming in our direction. I called out, and the footsteps stopped, then came harder and louder. I called out, "Whos that!" and the footsteps came on still, then they stopped. We stood there for about ten minutes but nothing else happened. We looked through the bushes which were very thick - no marks were found. We only hoped that some other people could have been there but it was early in the morning, about 7.30am.

..... Thank you very much Roy.....
