

Are we an Endangered Species?

As the evidence that we are being visited by extra - terrestrials from a world beyond our own Solar System becomes more undeniable, the question is being asked: "Why are they coming here"? Among many theories put forward, sadly, and perhaps dangerously, one which appears to be gaining support is the belief that their intentions are hostile. SIR. BERNARD LOVELL, (Renowned for his brilliant achievements in radio astronomy but not for the accuracy of his predictions), is one of several eminent men who have recently suggested that we are about to be experimented on, enslaved or exterminated by a hostile race from beyond the Earth. This supposition seems to be founded purely on the assumption that, if they can reach us, and we cannot reach them, then they must be technologically far in advance of our own civilisation. In as far as this goes, it is an obviously logical truth, but the theory is continued, to suppose that in such a case their weaponry is also far in advance, and thus if they have the ability to destroy they will inevitably use this ability. However, it is worth asking if this theory is borne out by what little knowledge we have so far gained about the Extra - Terrestrial activity in and around our planet, and by considering what our likely reactions would be if we were to discover another inhabited planet somewhere in deep space.

The truth is that in the first place there is no known evidence associating past reported UFO sightings and contacts with any actual or threatened harm to the individual concerned. On the contrary, the majority of those who have been involved with such happenings have reported that they felt not fear, but a sense of well being and friendship. Again, if their intentions were to destroy us, and we can at the same time pose no similar threat to them, why are we still here?. Can anyone suggest what they are waiting for?.

Furthermore, it seems somewhat arbitrary to automatically equate the ability to destroy with the intention or even the desire to do so.

There are many primitive communities in remote areas of this planet of whom we are aware, and who could be wiped out without difficulty by the technology of the advanced outside world, but we do not deem this necessary, either on economic or ethical grounds. Various scientists may visit them, study their cultures, and maybe offer them medical help, ETC, but on the whole, they are left alone to their own devices. So we can assume that our reaction would be much the same towards a more primitive life form we might discover elsewhere in the Galaxy. Somewhat a benevolent curiosity. Our space probes are armed, not with sophisticated weaponry, but by scientific instruments for investigation and research. Thus it may seem only fair to suggest that an even more advanced race from outside of this planet is unlikely to be concentrating its energies on crossing a part of the universe to a small planet like ours simply to wage a pointless war against a defenceless community.

If, as has also been suggested, they are coming here because they need some particular resources that this planet possesses, (something in itself that seems unlikely, when one considers the number of uninhabited planets in the universe between us and them, and the possibility of there being something here found nowhere else in the galaxy), then again it would seem most illogical of them to go about waging war and risking the devastation of that very resource that they require. Surely they would first make a peaceful approach to see if it could be gained without the risk of further harm.

I do not believe that our main fear need be the invasion by a savage hostile race from outer space, but if there is a danger, it lies in the attitudes and lack of understanding of ourselves. I have already suggested that our initial reaction to a less advanced society would be of friendship, but if their reply was to attack, then it is unlikely that we would fail to defend ourselves. It is very possible that we would do unintentional damage if they were not prepared to try and communicate with us. An innocent action on their part might, through ignorance on our part do harm to some vital part of their life support requirements. In the same way, a visiting Extra - Terrestrial might inadvertently affect our water and air supply if they did not realise how important it was to us.

Therefore, I consider it vitally important that governments and individuals alike should take the whole situation much more seriously and drastically change their attitudes to the subject. It is not crude denials and the suppression of knowledge on the one hand, and scaremongering on the other that is needed, but the pooling of all facts and theories to bring us nearer to a deeper understanding of just what might lie beyond the realms of our own world and how it can affect us on Earth. Nothing breeds fear like ignorance, to an extent where we are all afraid of what we do not understand, and our own reactions tend to be to hit out at this misunderstood entity. Suppose a flying saucer did land or fly very low tomorrow - what would happen? The army would be dispensed to surround it or shoot it down. I doubt if even the most basic attempt would be made to communicate with it first. In such a case, the occupants would be forced to defend themselves, and no matter what their original mission might have been, the probable outcome would be the destruction of not only personnel on one or both sides, but the destruction of not only personnel on one or both sides, but the destruction of any chance of further communication with the Extra - Terrestrials. We would be considered to be an unfriendly civilisation not in any circumstances to be contacted again.

I believe that logic and evidence both point to the strong likelihood that whoever is out there, they are friendly, and that we have much to gain and learn from them if only we approach them in the right way. But whatever their purpose, we cannot hope to come to terms and benefit by their existence and attempts to contact us through violence and ignorance. Our answers to all questions can only be found in searching and compiling the facts in honest investigation and unbiased research. Only in this way can we reach and be reached by whoever is seeking us out.

So, if you meet an Extra -- Terrestrial on your way home tonight, don't scream. Smile, and say hello. You never know what you might learn.

BOOK REVIEW

The Mystery of Atlantis
(The Eighth Continent)

By

CHARLES F. BERLITZ

Did it ever really exist? Where was it? Was it swallowed up by the sea? Has it finally been found?

The fascinating story of Atlantis - told fully for the first time - with a dramatic new solution to the age-old mystery. Ever since Plato, men have pondered the mystery of Atlantis. Was there a great island empire with that name? And, if so, where was it located....and how did it disappear mysteriously from the face of Earth? Or is it all a hoax? Another fanciful tale of Greek mythology? These questions have intrigued men for centuries. With each discovery of new land in the West by Columbus and other explorers, a new theory emerged. And when archeologists recently announced the discovery of "remnants of the true Atlantis" in the midst of the Grecian Islands, the debate flared again.

Now in the most definitive study of its kind ever undertaken, noted linguist and world-traveler, Charles Berlitz, unravels the mystery of Atlantis. He traces the history of the controversy.... discusses and evaluates the various theories..... and offers a bold solution that may forever lay the mystery to rest.

Poem of the Group

Gliding silently across the sky,
Does anyone wonder the reason why,
They come in secret and leave in haste,
Do we notice or is it their time they waste,
They come in friendship full of peace,
Will our hostility ever cease,
With constant waring and our spies,
Do they watch from yonder skies,
Perhaps one day there face, they will show,
And help our spiritual awareness grow.

HIDDEN WORLDS: FRESH CLUES TO THE PAST

By. M.H.J.Th. van der Veer & P. Moerman

Published by Transworld Publishers Ltd.

The following article was given to UFO INFO EXCHANGE LIBRARY by Mrs. Knowles of Trowbridge. She was sent it from America by Paul Bannister, It is taken from National Enquirer. October 26th 1976.

15-year-old Psychic Astonishes Scientific Investigator;

GIRL SENDS AND RECEIVES MENTAL MESSAGES 4,000 MILES--AND SHE IS 100% ACCURATE

An amazing 15 year old girl has dazzled a top British physicist with her remarkable, Uri Geller like psychic powers, including the ability to bend spoons and other metal objects solely with the force of her mind. The mini-Geller teenager, Julie Knowles of Trowbridge, England, also displayed uncanny telepathic powers. In one experiment she scored an astounding 100% accuracy in receiving and transmitting mental messages 4,000 miles across the ocean. This child has extremely powerful abilities, declared Prof. John Hasted, head of the physics department at Londons Birbeck College, who tested the girls psychic powers at the request of the ENQUIRER. She has genuine ability and is very quick to develop new psychic skills. There seems little doubt that her metal bending is paranormal.

To test, Julie's phenomenal ability, Prof. Hasted gave her a glass tube, in which was sealed a thin brass rod. From time to time over a period of several weeks, Julie stroked the glass tube and when she returned it unbroken, the sealed in rod had a bend of several degrees. This could be a record bend for this type of sealed in bar, said Prof Hasted.

In a second experiment, Prof. Hasted suspended a key in front of Julie, with electronic gauges wired to it to measure any force applied to the key. By merely concentrating on the key, Julie was able to make the recording pen on the electronic gauge jump widely. Next, the same key was placed in a glass fruit bowl. Again Julie made the recorder jump on command even though she was touching only glass bowl, not they key.

I regard this as exciting evidence, Prof Hasted exclaimed. I am convinced Julie is applying force to this key without using physical or mechanical means. We have evidence here, witnessed and recorded on sophisticated instruments.

Later, Prof. Hasted formed a "T" with two plastic straws and floated them in a goblet of water. Then he covered the goblet with a glass jar. Julie concentrated on the glass for five minutes, from a distance of 18", and made the plastic straws turn an incredible 60 deg.

Prof Hasted decided to measure the girls telepathic ability, He sent a mental image of a horse and Julie promptly drew a sketch of a horse shoe. I've never tried telepathy before, she confessed shyly. But for a beginner, she scored astonishingly well in the next test arranged by an enquirer reporter. He telephoned Chicago psychic Olof Jonsson from Julie's home in Trowbridge 4,000 miles away. After they chatted briefly on the phone, Julie concentrated while Olof silently visualized three images; the number 7, the colour green and an image of a clock in his room. Incredibly Julie got all three messages.

Then Julie wrote down the three images she would try to send to Jonsson; a rounded vase, a TV set and a tomato. Jonsson later told The Enquirer; I received a smooth, elongated, rounded image, like a tall glass or Jug (the vase) then I got a definite square (TV set), and last, I got a red colour in a circle (the tomato). Julie elated by her success in the experiments, gently stroked a metal spoon and within 10 minutes it had bent about 75%. Harry Collins a lecturer at the University of Bath, who has filmed a videotape of Julie showing her using mind-power to bend a spoon, told the ENQUIRER; The camera was four feet away from the child, behind a one way mirror. We went through every test we could think of, and we are sure she is not using physical force, and she is not cheating.

This article was written by Paul Bannister, we are very grateful for Mrs Knowles letting us use it in h our newsletter, we are in touch with the family, who are helping UFO INFO EXCHANGE LIBRARY, in a great way. Once again our thanks to you and your family for the friendship and help you are giving us all. Many people who are involved with UFO's will remember Uri Gellers comments in his book URI, about UFO's.

Extract from Warnings from Flying Friends

By Arthur Shuttlewood.

Let us make a priliminary search, here, for some of the most simple of these mysteries and what they imply. Let us assume that around various suns in the entire firmament are planets where are taught the continuing lessons of life and purpose in different degrees. No one man has Universal knowledge, each man is our teacher; and some have far more than others because they search with greater sincerity and diligence.

If we are willing to suppose that Venus is inhabited by beings capable of existence in intense radiation or heat in a duality of form physical and spiritual, we learn that a child is there taught to remember its past incarnations and so profet by past mistakes.

Once it has been schooled to arrive at a clear picture of past incarnations it is ready to embark on the sciences and study of other subjects. Masters on such a planet teach the essential fact that before anything can be learned the Venusion child must know the arts of "tuning in" to Cosmic consciousness via the primary sauce of Wisdom. This science is not another Venusion but that which earth we on earth call God. To attempt to understand physics, mathematics or any other science in its fullest and truest aspects, the first rule is that the mind of the child must be trained to contact the highest source which is all wisdom.

UFO OVER COVENTRY

Thursday 4th November 1976

4.15a.m.

I was sat in my room on the 17th Floor of a building in Coventry. When the friend I was with noticed some-thing outside, we went to the window and as we watched a lighted object hovered over the city. I first thought it was a hot air balloon which had somehow been illuminated for some reason. However as we watched the object grew larger, as if it was coming closer, although it stayed in the same position in relation to the building near it. I discarded the theory that it might be a hot-air balloon when the thing changed shape, we watched as gradually the shape changed from a balloon shape into a sphere, a few seconds later it gradually began to flatten out along one side, until it had become a half-sphere. Finally it flattened out even more until it became cigar shaped. Throughout the process it remained illuminated with a white light across which there appeared to be shadows moving, changing and dividing the object into portions. The object appeared to be divided into two, later into three. The shadows were in the form of horizontal and vertical lines (not simultaneously). My friend asked if I had a camera, I did, but when I had it primed the object moved at a tremendous speed in a straight line towards the horizon. Within a few seconds it was at such a distance it had diminished into invisibility, leaving us both in a state of shaky incredulity, we discussed what we had seen for quite a while trying to find a rational explanation for what we had seen without success. I personally found the lack of a rational explanation very disturbing, perhaps even frightening, it was difficult to comprehend what we had seen.

Luminous Gold object seen over Estuary

14-3-77 Sighting weekend 12-13 March 1977.

Taken from Western Mail, newspaper of Wales.

Welsh artist Mr. John Petts, of Llanstephan, has put down on paper his impression of a luminous UFO he spotted over Ferryside, Dyfed, at the weekend.

Mr. Petts said yesterday he was at his home, where he designs and makes his famous stained-glass windows, when he noticed the object from his living room window, which overlooks the River Towy Estuary.

It was just after 1 a.m. and he had been working late.

Mr. Petts said he was preparing for bed. He had switched off the lights in the living room and drawn back the curtains. He went on "I then looked south-east across the estuary. Above and beyond the horizon of the hills above Ferryside on the far side of the river, my eye was caught by a horizontal strip of light. It was luminous, pale gold, like the colour of the moon. "I was amazed to see that the outline shape was clear and sharp, far from woolly-edged as it would be from a cloud. What I saw clearly was a clean-cut shape of even light, pale gold, the shape of a weavers shuttle, sharply pointed at each end, the top and bottom edges straight and parallel.

"By now I was intent and alert, starring hard and wondering what will this do? It seemed poised, immobile. I thought will it rise higher or will it move to the right or the left, It did not move at all, but suddenly, it was switched off, suddenly like a light. Whatever he saw Mr. Petts does not believe it was from outer space. "I dont go for the space thing", he said. "It was likely to be manmade. Perhaps some new mode of transportation from a secret experimental station. After all, they have to try these things out at some time.

Mr. Petts is not the obly Llanstephan resident to see strange sights over the Towy Estuary. Mrs Michael Lowmes said, "I had an exactly similar experience. Mr. Petts, description put into words what I saw around last Christmas.
